

Nora Boxer

OLYMPUS, TURKEY

Fields of grain wave inside the temple door.
Wasps' nests spire up from the bricks.
Your ruins will house something else.

This poem is pictured inside an Ojibwe birchbark & quill letter box, circa 1910-20.

TINY POEMS • SHORT PROSE INCH

Winter 2017
ISSUE 11

OLYMPUS, TURKEY

Nora Boxer

Fields of grain wave inside the temple door.
Wasps' nests spire up from the bricks.
Your ruins will house something else.

Photo: [unreadable]

LORESON

Black of red leaves on the leaf in the forest of the
sun. The [unreadable]
of [unreadable] in the [unreadable]
the [unreadable] of the [unreadable]